What begins as the sheer desire for adventure turns into a spiritual quest as a young woman comes to terms with her family, her dreams, and her first love. Tania Aebi was an unambitious eighteen-year-old, a bicycle messenger in New York City by day, a Lower East Side barfly at night. In short, she was going nowhere—until her father offered her a challenge: Tania could choose either a college education or a twenty-six-foot sloop. The only catch was that if she chose the sailboat, she'd have to sail around the world—alone. She chose the boat, and for the next two and a half years and 27,000 miles, it was her home. With only her cat as companion, she discovered the wondrous beauties of the Great Barrier Reef and the death-dealing horrors of the Red Sea. She suffered through a terrifying collision with a tanker in the Mediterranean and a lightning storm off the coast of Gibraltar. And, ultimately, what began with the sheer desire for adventure turned into a spiritual quest as Tania came to terms with her troubled family life, fell in love for the first time, and—most of all—confronted her own needs, desires, dreams, and goals...

It is two hundred million years into the future, and Earth is devastated by a dying sun whose expanding photosphere has melted the surface of the planet and driven humans underground. In this world, humankind is doomed to extinction. But Marcus Fincus thinks he can secure the survival of the human species. He selects a small crew of brave voyagers from the insignificant but determined planet Earth to set out in search of a new home. Their ship, the "Destiny Unknown," is designed to take care of everything. Every meal is regulated to the ounce. Every mile is charted and mapped. Everybody has his or her own unique role in this micro-society: doctor, teacher, electrician, engineer. Then the inevitable happens: the passengers start to behave as people. The captain seduces half the women on the ship, his wife develops a neurological disorder, their sixteen-year-old son runs away in the escape pod, and the doctor dies in a freak scalpel accident. "The Maiden Voyage of the Destiny Unknown" is a dark parable about the nature of human existence. Told from the perspective of an alien observer who follows our heroes like an unsympathetic reporter from "National Geographic"—he refuses to intervene when our heroes come face-to-face with deadly meteor showers, alien cannibals, and other crises that threaten to destroy them all. Funny and philosophical in its treatment of human nature, "The Maiden Voyage of the Destiny Unknown" not only seeks to understand the place of humans in the universe—it also seeks to address the looming question: What makes us so special?

"Being the second voyage of the NACS odyssey."

The rain was pouring down. The dirt road through Zululand was incredibly muddy, a surface of slippery black loam. Our friends, Garth and Janet Holden, were driving a large open truck, packed with our furniture covered only by a canvas tarpaulin. At the moment, we were stuck behind a large truck belonging to the Natal Parks Board capture unit, containing a full load of wildebeest. The truck had slithered across the road and was dug into the mud roadside on. We had packed in the rain and driven through the downpour for hours. My wife Barbara and I were on our way to the Umfolozi Game Reserve, where I had been appointed as a game ranger and wilderness trails guide. Eventually we managed to get through and towards dusk arrived at our new home in Masinda, in the Corridor between the Umfolozi and Hluhluwe Game Reserves. The Corridor is part of the combined complex of these two reserves. All our furniture was soaked through, including our mattresses, couches, and chairs, and worse still, we were expecting Barbara's parents to arrive the next day to stay with us for a week. The year was 1971, and Barbara and I were newly married. It had all started in 1958, when at the age of 28 I met Brian Campbell at Gollel in Swaziland."This is the real story of 'Indiana' Don of Africa. The most humble man I have ever met. He loves God's creation and has given his life to educating people of it's value and care." Andy Huddleston Don Richards. Adventures of an African Ranger (Kindle Locations 114-128). M.E.I. International.

'There is no danger that Titanic will sink. The boat is unsinkable and nothing but inconvenience will be suffered by the passengers.' - Phillip Franklin, White Star Line Vice-President On April 15th, 1912, Titanic, the world's largest passenger ship, sank after colliding with an iceberg, claiming more than 1,500 lives. Walter Lord's classic bestselling history of the voyage, the wreck and the aftermath is a tour de force of detailed investigation and the upstairs/downstairs divide. A Night to Remember provides a vivid, gripping and deeply personal account of the 'unsinkable' Titanic's descent. WITH A NEW FOREWORD BY JULIAN FELLOWES

James Cameron's Titanic chronicles the cinematic re-creation of the most legendary ocean disaster of all time as seen through the eyes of a master storyteller. Set against the ship's fateful maiden voyage, Cameron's much anticipated motion picture epic weaves a rich human tapestry of romance, heroism, tragedy and greed. Within these pages is a detailed look at the monumental effort by thousands of artists and craftsmen to accurately re-create the "ship of dreams," including the full-size exterior replica of the ship and the 17-million-gallon tank facility designed to sink her; a wealth of detailed interior spaces; new discoveries from Cameron's 1995 dives to the wreck, some two-and-a-half miles below the ocean surface; studies of the ornate wardrobe, makeup and hairstyles that defined the look of the "Gilded Age"; an overview of the film's groundbreaking visual-effects work; and in-depth interviews with cast and crew, all referenced to the historic events of the Titanic's maiden, and final, voyage.
