On the day of the first debate, the national polls had Clinton 42, Trump 41. 17% were either voting for someone else or had not made up their minds. Yesterday, the national polls had Biden 50, Trump 43 with only 7% either voting for someone else or undecided. Clinton's job was obviously very different to Biden's.

The Showdown: Donald Trump vs Joe Biden for US President ...

Hillary went chasing Georgia and Utah where she was far behind while neglecting states she needed where she was vulnerable. Completely different scenario here, Trump's campaign is in trouble, the Dems are awash with cash, and have multiple viable paths to a clear EC win so spending some of that surplus cash to try and flip a few more state houses (and, which could prove critical, state Congressional delegations) only makes sense.
