A group of people are looking at you. They are waiting to start learning. If you are dull you will bore them. If you go into too much detail you will lose them. If you don't know your stuff you will lose their respect in seconds. What are you going to do? As a trainer you simply can't afford to be less than brilliant. The effectiveness of your training skills is what sets you apart from other trainers. Tony Pont provides practical guidance and advice on all aspects of designing and delivering group training: everything from where to position the projector, through understating how people learn and how groups interact, to evaluating and improving your delivery. Developing Effective Training Skills is the complete guide to delivering training that will make people better.

The Handbook of International Psychology Ethics discusses the most central, guiding principles of practice for mental health professionals around the world. For researchers, practicing mental health professionals, and students alike, the book provides a window into the values and belief systems of cultures worldwide. Chapters cover ethics codes from psychological associations and societies on five continents, translating each code into English and discussing vital questions around how the code is put into practice, what it means to association members and society at large, as well as how the code was developed within its unique historical, political, and cultural context.
